SIGHTSEEING IN SOSNÓWKA

The tourist activity in Sosnówka began at the end of the 18th century, when Jelenia Góraand Wrocław were connected by a stagecoach route,which made the residents of distant cities more interested in the Karkonosze region. The first inns and guesthouses appeared, and soon, the village became a starting point for mountain hikers. Since 1785, a guide worked in Sosnówka:Jerzy Suchodolski, Polish aristocrat.There was an increase in popularity in walks to the castle with the observation tower and hikes to the St. Anna Chapel and the local inn,famous for trout. Sedan chair tourism became very popular, thanks to which in 1817, the world's first organization that brought together mountain guides and porters was established in Jelenia Góra. Porters and riding horses rental station was also located in Sosnówka by the Chapel of St. Anne. Among the hikers were primarily the clients of the Ciepliec Spa and tourists, but also famous people like Izabela Czartoryska, or Polish poets - Wincenty Pol and Kornel Ujejski. At the end of the 19th century, a touristic club was established in the Karkonosze - called the Karkonosze Society (RGV), and a railway was brought to Jelenia Góra. These events sparked an even greater interest in the area. Since 6th century, the Dobre Źródło (the Good Spring) located close to the Seidorf Hotel ***** was the hub of an Old Slavic religious cult. This place is associated with folktales of a golden lamb hidden under the doorstep of the Chapel of St. Anne and the healing power of the local water.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE SOSNÓWKA VILLAGE

Sosnówka was founded in 1285 at one of the oldest crossings to Czech Republic - Babia Track, leading near Good Spring by Mt Grabowiec and the St. Anne's Chapel.

The Spring is also called the Spring of Love. Folktales has it that it is enough to circle the Chapel of St. Anne seven times holding water in your mouth, to ensure success in love for yourself. Winter sports have also contributed to the development of the village. In Sosnówka there was downhill skiing, and one of the popular horned sledge ski runs ended here, that led from Smogornia. As the popularity grew, new resorts and guesthouses were established. For example, within the project of a group of Wrocław investors led by a jeweller Ernest Vogt, the Villenkolonie estate was partially developed. This unique project was entrusted to a local architect – Wilhelm Kiehnel. The end of the 19th century is also the date of the creation of the present-day Seidorf Hotel *****, formerly, the Hainbergshöh Hotel. After the World War II in Sosnówka, group tourism activity was initiated. There were marked trails, tourist maps and guides. Thanks to the engagement of the PITK and the establishment of Sosnówka Workers' Holiday Fund with more than 1200 beds, Sosnówka became the largest holiday resort in the Jelenia Góra Valley in the 1960s and 1970s. In the subsequent decades there was a significant decrease in tourist traffic, the Workers' Holiday Fund was decommissioned, and the maintenance costs increased. Modern tourism in Sosnówka is mainly based on agritourism, guesthouses and hotels. The popularity of this area is on the rise thanks to the dynamic development of modern accommodation facilities.

SEIDORF HOTEL*****

In 1899, in Seidorf, 670 m above sea level, an exclusive holiday resort was developed - the Hainbergshöh Hotel (which means in German: The Peak of The Grove Mountain). A stately site located on Kazalnica Hill, surrounded by forests and mountain peaks offered relaxing holidays and wonderful views of the surrounding area to the guests. The biggest attraction of the hotel was the spacious observation deck from which the guests could admire the panorama of the Jelenia Góra Valley and the Karkonosze mountain range. Guests had at their disposal spacious, comfortably furnished rooms, high class restaurant, green areas, places to relax, as well as infrastructure for skiing and tobogganing, for active people. Ads placed in local newspapers encouraged people to arrive, mentioning that electricity, central heating and separate bathrooms are all available. Guests could also send traditional mail as well as short telegraph messages.

The majestic hotel has gained popularity over time, becoming a well-established, extremely fashionable centre for wealthier citizens of cities and neighbouring countries. It attracted many local officials, industrialists from the Republic of Weimar, and influential Third Reich politicians. In the mid-20th century, the facility began to function as a holiday centre, used by the Workers' Holiday Fund. In the 1960s and 1970s it enjoyed immense popularity, under the name of "Społem" Holiday Home. It was one of the most important resorts in Sosnówka and the Jelenia Góra Valley. After many years of glory, the resort became forgotten, but thanks to the preserved information recorded on the history pages of the Karkonosze, after 120 years, the modern hotel industry restored the facility to its former glory, under the name of Seidorf Hotel *****. The first-class hotel rooms combine modern style with mountain character and tradition. The apartments offer a charming view not only of the mountains, but also the Jelenia Góra Valley and the Sosnówka Reservoir. From the observation deck guests can admire the ruins of the Castle of Prince Henry, the Valley of Palaces in the distance, the Gardens, and Rudawy Janowickie mountain range. This is a place for guests who look for respite and solace of the senses, and also, for enthusiasts of active recreation in the magical surroundings of mountain peaks...

THE LEGEND OF THE GOOD SPRING

Since the 6th century, the Good Spring, located near the Seidorf Hotel*****, was a centre of Old Slavic religious cult.
